Joint BASHH and FSRH Conference:
Sexual and Reproductive Health across the Life Course

Programme

Friday 10th February 2017

Royal Society of Medicine,
1 Wimpole Street,
London, W1G OAE
Abstracts and biographies

Have an increased awareness of the relevant law and legislation relating to pornography.

Explore your own attitude towards pornography in order to understand how this might impact on your work with young people.

Kerry Starrett, SRE Training and Development Specialist, Croydon Health Services NHS Trust

Kerry is based within the Young People’s Sexual Health Service as the SRE Training & Development Specialist. Key areas of work include specialist training, teaching SRE, guidance and support in schools/non-school settings to young people and professionals. In March 2013, Kerry was part of the award winning team at the UK Sexual Health Awards for the Pamela Sheridan young people’s sexual health project of the year. Previous to this role Kerry worked as the Health Promotion Officer for Schools and Youth for the Western Health & Social Care Trust in Northern Ireland, leading on the Health Promoting School Award and other specialist work around young people’s issues. Kerry has also worked as a health worker for young people in the voluntary sector.

Michelle Doyle, Education and Training Specialist in Young People’s Sexual Health, Croydon Health Services NHS Trust

Michelle joined the Young People’s Sexual Health Service Team as the Education and Training Specialist in September 2014. Her role involves delivering sex and relationship education to targeted young people in the borough. Before taking this role, she spent a number of years as a PSHE teacher in mainstream education in both Croydon and Dublin. Prior to this, Michelle worked as a press officer and public relations manager for clients such as the Irish Medicines Board and The Food Safety Authority of Ireland leading communications and crisis management for public health campaigns.

Alcohol and sexual health

Dr Bowden-Jones will present a summary of the research examining the impact of alcohol consumption on sexual health. He will then propose different conceptual models for understanding the interactions between intoxication and sexual activity. Finally, he will present clinical data from a year long pilot of co-located substance misuse and sexual health services and discuss engagement and treatment strategies for those with co-morbid sexual and substance misuse problems.

Dr Owen Bowden-Jones, Consultant Psychiatrist, London

Dr Owen Bowden-Jones is a consultant in addiction psychiatry and a honorary senior lecturer at Imperial College in the Division of Brain Science.

National roles include clinical adviser to Alcohol, Drugs and Tobacco division at Public Health England, associate registrar at Royal College of Psychiatrists and Chair of the Advisory Council on the Misuse of Drugs (ACMD). In 2010, Dr Bowden-Jones founded the CNWL Club Drug Clinic, an innovative service offering treatment for emerging drugs such as novel psychoactive substances. The service has since developed joint clinics with local sexual health providers. Owen leads project NEPTUNE, a review of clinical management of ‘club drugs’ (www.neptune-clinical-guidance.co.uk) and is co-investigator for the GHB detox trial (www.clubdrugclinic.cnwl.nhs.uk/ghb-trial).

In 2015, Owen was awarded the Communicator of the Year prize by the Royal College of Psychiatrists.